PARIS, August 20.—That baseball is a fit preparation for one branch of the military service was shown recently when Gordon Sarre, an American member of the Foreign Legion, established a new world's record at Fontainebleau for throwing the band grenade. Sarre threw the death-cating grenade a distance of seventy meters and fifty centimeters, or nearly 215 feet. A few years ago Sarre was a baseball player on one of the best-known preparatory school teams in the United States.

The for ner record of sixty-six meters and sixty-seven centimeters, made on the Fourth of July, is also held by a former baseball player named Shockers.

), why did this Hank Gowdy do it.
When he could do his shipyard bit?

Eddie Collins answered the call of his country yesterday, thereby relieving Hank Gowdy of a tremendous responsibility; namely, supporting the reputation of organized baseball. As "Igloe" says: "Why mention Atlas at all when Hank Gowdy has to account for the great American pastime?"

Say, Eddie, why not exert that sub-tle influence you exercised over Zim last year and induce a regiment or two of Fritzies to chase you a couple of blocks, holding smoking grenades in their hands?

Art Williams and Walter Johnson likewise came to the front yesterday; the former by letting his registration go, in spite of the fact that he was above draft age when he registered, and the latter by refusing an offer of 3300 a game from a shipyard team, declaring that he could accomplish more for the cause of democracy by attending to his farm.

Football for Richmond College this fall seems to be only a dim prospect, at best. So many gridders have been lost that it will be next to impossible lost that it will be next to impossible for the institution to turn out the usual husky bunch of Spiders. It is a safe prediction that all of the letter men of last year will be gone from the city by the first of next month. Raw material will be hard to whip together, especially so without aid of Frank Dobson or Mac Pitt, who will, in all probability, be in a training camp before the season gets well under way.

Add to this the fact that the nearest practice field will be Byrd Park, and the Red and Blue warriors will be literally "all dressed up with no place to go," and the fact is apparent that a Spider eleven does not quite reach the bounds of probability and that a good team would hardly fall into the class of a possibility.

The Seaview Golf Club, of Atlantic City, the finest club along the Atlantic Coast, has installed traps for the use of the golfers when conditions make it impossible for them to enjoy the links.

Dr. Joseph E. Roycroft, director of the athletic division of the training camp commission, has introduced an obstacle course, which takes the shine out of ordinary hurdling and makes the latter seem tame. The men are forced to jump brush hurdles, a shallow trench seven feet wide, wire entanglements, a fence three and one-half feet high, plank bridges, sixteen trenches and a seven-foot wall, which must be scaled in one minute. The object of the course is to accustom soldiers to what they may expect in actual warfare "over there." The first course will be established at Camp Kearney, California.

CINCINNATI, OHIO, August 20.—
The National Baseball Commission methere to-day, and went into a thorough discussion of the coming world's series, but shortly before the conclusion of the meeting announced officially that no decisions relative to the schedule, umpires, eligible players and other data would be announced before an official promulgation of a bulletin containing all this information on next Thursday or Friday.

The reason given by Chairman August Herrmann, speaking for the commission, was that the American League race was entirely too close and that it would be better to delay any announcements that were to be made. It was unofficially, but authoritatively stated, that every phase of the world's series work was taken up. The meeting to-day was attended only by Chairman Herrmann, President B. B. Johnson, of the American League, and Secretary John Heydler, of the National League, who came armed with authority to represent his league at the meeting. The usual gathering of baseball magnates from almost every part of the country was lacking.
